Multimodal Learning Environments: Engaging Learners Course

Multimodal Learning Environments: Engaging Learners What does this mean!

A multimodal approach in the classroom environment encourages creativity for both teachers and students. A Multimodal Environment is characterized by several different modes of activity. It allows students to find a path that works for them, their culture, language, background, and understanding. In doing so we incorporate a variety of learning styles:

- Learning Styles
- Multiple Intelligences

The three main learning styles are:

- Visual
- Auditory
- Kinesthetic

Here are some fun activities to work on with students during daily teaching practices!

Flip Chart Summary

During the course of the day ask students Open-ended questions about what they are working on and ask them to write or draw it on a Flip Chart. Ask student to refer to flipchart as they tell you their story

Sing a Song

Have students sing their name to you or the area they are going to work at.

Two Sentence Summary

Have students retell a story in 2 sentences.

Summarize in Poetic Form

Have students tell a story using words that rhyme.
